Hunter and Gibson Post Victories

Eskimos Win and Lose To Calgary Buffaloes

Buffaloes and Eskimos traded wins over the week-end. Hunter piling the home club to a 3-2 victory Saturday night and Whitney shutting out the Edmonton nine 4-0 with a two-hitter Sunday afternoon, thus giving the Calgaryans a two to one edge in the usual Big Four Inter-City series.

Neither pitcher started a home on Saturday, but Hunter held a slight edge over Whitney. The Buffaloes being only twice to get more than one hit in an inning. Whitney was second in the seventh came from O'Connor's through short, Rogers double and an error by Hunter.

THE FIRST of the three Eskimos runs which gave the home team a 1-0 lead, was unearned and came in the second frame. Stevenson was safe when Work dropped a throw. Brockie double to right sent the Eskimo catcher to third from where he scored when Gary dumped the ball about 20 feet from the plate.

Whitney could not have made the play off Stevenson at the plate, but he juggled the ball and hit to first base was safe.

ESKIMOS won the game again on the eighth. Bill Price started things rolling with a double to left field and Ralph Morgan had taken second on the throw-in and he went to third as Stevenson was thrown out and homered on Dave Brockie's single.

Offeman, Buffalo manager, batted for Rogers in the ninth and was put out of the game by unpinned Jim Kelly for dropping a second called strike. Bradley took his place and struck out.

ESKIMOS played an indifferent ball Sunday afternoon and never looked like winners. Whitney shut out the Buffaloes on the eighth and a single by Morgan in the fourth.

Doug Ditch pitched well after the first inning when doubles by English and Shepard, along with Rogers' single, Offeman's single and Work's sacrifice produced three runs.

DITCH gave up only one home run, the same as Gibson, but he lost to Sheppard. The Buffaloes eventually scored an unearned run. Sheppard's second and came home when Gibson's double went to first on Offeman's ground ball.

Brooks Blazing Rally Nips Cards in Ninth

NEW YORK, July 21—(AP)—The National League's Brooklyn Dodgers put on a stormy ninth inning fight to whip St. Louis Cardinals.

The Cards played the game under protest from the National League, claiming that Ron Northey's triple off the outfield wall, which he was thrown out at home, had actually gone into the center field seats and bounced back on the field.

For eight innings, the Brooks were helpless under the fire of rookie Jim Hearn's stout stuff.

When Pete Hoenes, St. Louis Walker opened the eighth with doubles, Hearn was replaced with Brooks replaced later by Murre Dickson who allowed another run and Homer Puckett to pick to pinch-hitter Ed Miksa.

Miksa singled home the winning run.

AT BOSTON, Pittsburgh Pirates, trailing off 16 runs in the eighth, off ace Warren Spahn, wallowed around 9-1. Meanwhile southern prize Fritz Ostermeier limited the triple to five hits.

IN THE AMERICAN LEAGUE, the leading New York Yankees dropped two games to the rival Detroit Tigers.

Old Red Ruffing won his 27th American League victory in the first game at Chicago as the White Sox took a 2-5 decision against the Phils.

ALBANY, N.Y., July 21—(CP)—The New York Yankees won the first game at Chicago as the White Sox took a 2-5 decision against the Phils.

THE VETERAN Ruffing belted Paul Marchiondi of Peoria, who was hit by a 1-2 pitch in the 21st inning in the opener. The big A's right-hander now has 10 victories and six defeats.

North Side Legion Eliminates Callies

Edmonton Team To Continue In Soccer Playoff

By Jim Algeo

Edmonton Bulletin Staff Writer

CALGARY, July 21—Donning the magic sniping skills which have won them every provincial soccer award during the last two years, the powerful North Side Legion eleven of Edmonton earned the right to represent Alberta in further Dominion play-downs, when they edged the Calgary Callies 2-1 in a season's fixture here Saturday night.

About 400 football faithfuls braved the steady downpour, which made playing conditions difficult.

SPARKLING net - minding by veteran Bill Neas, whose outstanding play rubbed the Callies of a number of sure talls, and held them scoreless until the last five minutes of the game.

Neas, who played the last five minutes of the game, was the only player to play the full 90 minutes.

Goalie Bill Neas played the most brilliant game in North Side Legion's 2-1 over Callies at Calgary Saturday night, but Bobby Graham (above right), who performed a fine defensive play, scored the first goal of the game.

Kept Maid as Slave

Convict U.S. Woman On Slavery Charges

SAN DIEGO, Calif., July 21.—(AP)—Government prosecutors in the slavery case in which Mrs. Alfred West Ingalls, 62, was convicted Saturday night will not press for another trial for her husband, Betty Marshall Graydon, United States assistant district attorney, said here yesterday.

MRS. INGALLS was convicted of enslaving Mrs. Negro maid over a period of nearly 40 years in violation of the 13th amendment to the United States constitution. Mrs. Ingalls was placed in the country jail despite an impassioned plea by her husband "It will mean her death," pending her sentence set for July 29. The maximum penalty is five years in prison, $5,000 fine, or both.

The trial, which lasted four weeks, was the first outright slavery case tried under the 13th amendment since 1866. Ingalls remained at liberty on $2,500 bail.

MISS JONES, 38, meanwhile was on her way to St. Louis, Mo., to make her home with a brother after declaring she never expected to see the Ingalls again.

She testified during the trial that she felt she "owed her life" to Mrs. Ingalls because of an affair of nearly 40 years ago with her mistress' first husband, Walter Harman of Washington, D.C.

The prosecution contended that Mrs. Ingalls "never allowed doors to forget" that affair and that she and her husband used it to reduce the maid to the slavery under threats of jail and hell.

New Wage Pact Is Negotiated

What is believed to be one of the first wage agreements in Canada to include a cost of living clause, was concluded recently between the Macdonald Tobacco Company of Montreal and the Tobacco Workers' International Union, Local 233.

In recognizing the necessity for a flexible method of compensation to keep pace with rapid rises and decreases in the cost of living, the company agreed that the "gross wages shall be increased by 35 cents per week for each full point rise over April 6, 1947. Should the cost of living decline, this bonus shall be decreased 35 cents per week for each full point of decline, but not below the index figure as at April 6, 1947."

The new contract, which was concluded in a completely amiable atmosphere, also included a general 50-cent hourly increase, a five-day working week of 42 hours and inclusion of ten holidays, six of them with pay.

Girls Lose Clothes In Sunday Blaze

Clothing and furniture were badly damaged in a fire which broke out in one room of a two-story house located at 10231 106th street, Sunday night.

A cigarette butt left on a cherted fire in the living room, the alarm was immediately turned in by William Kwak, another occupant of the building.

Five boys No. 1, 2 and 3 responded to direction of Deputy Chief William Ferguson. The two girls had their clothing destroyed, the furniture in the room badly damaged, and the downstairs rooms and furniture, suffered considerable damage, due to water which seeped through from the upstairs.

Damages Awarded In Accident Case

Damages of $9,018 were awarded to Robert Wesley, of Edmonton, in a Supreme Court judgment handed down by Justice J. A. Macdonald. The case concerned an accident in which Wesley was injured while driving his automobile on an excessive rate of speed, and was caused by the negligence of the driver of a car which was driven by the defendant, Mr. J. A. Macdonald.

The accident occurred near the intersection of 106th street and Calgary highway.

Mr. Macdonald, the defendant, was found to be negligent in driving his automobile at an excessive rate of speed, and in failing to keep a proper lookout.

The plaintiff's act in walking on the paved portion of the highway was found to be negligent, which contributed to the accident.

The judgment was given by Justice Macdonald, who found that the defendant was negligent in driving his automobile at an excessive rate of speed, and in failing to keep a proper lookout.

Eleven Accidents During Week-End

Traffic accidents during the week-end were light, with only 11 minor collisions reported. No one was injured.

The closest call came to Alex. Fedorishin, Nordberg, who ran his auto into the side of a truck on 96th street, Sunday afternoon at 6 p.m. Sunday.

The accident was caused by a man with a flag at the crossing, but did not know what he was there for, and he was not a pedestrian, and then could not stop in time to avoid the collision. He escaped unscathed.

As To War

FAIRBANKS, Alaska.—This afternoon at 4:30 p.m. drove into the outskirts of Fairbanks, through the city of Fairbanks, and pulled up at the end of our fourteenth day of travel beside a roadside sign that said, "End of Alaska Highway."

The mileage indicator on the dash board of our mud-covered car has added up 1,322 road miles from Dawson Creek, B.C., the start of the big road.

The dust on our denim and the ache here are even better evidence of how far we've come.

The trip has proven, a lot of things about this amazing road, some of which we'll add up later.

The most outstanding impression at this moment is that this magnificent highway through British Columbia, the Yukon and Alaska is not being maintained with any idea of tourist travel or even as a freight route to the interior along its incredible length.

This is purely and simply a military road and you never forget it for a minute.

We did not pass at a single spot where the whole without hearing stories of military preparations through the north, of giant airfields and radio stations, and their built underground as protection against attack of cold weather tests by aircraft and even as a freight route to the interior along its incredible length.

I'm not suggesting that there's any more talk here of the issue of a Third World War than there is elsewhere. If anything, there's less of that talk. But construction for defense in Alaska's No. 1 industry is discussed accordingly, and this road is its key.

Strange Peace

The drive in to Fairbanks today from the border settlements of the "build-up" in Southern England is a memory.

We passed dozens of jeeps and staff cars and saw signal corps lieutenants in khaki dress repairing the roadside telephone lines. Two military ambulances with the familiar red cross on their sides and roofs sped by.

One of the nearest Fairbanks itself we turned the car radio on and heard the voice of the Armed Forces program "Mail Call," familiar to us from the "Radio City" program.

Passing Littlefield we saw a small sample of the construction work that has brought the road to Alaska. The immense army field is being enlarged here as part of the whole military program.

Hundreds of bulldozers and massive trucks and steam shovels are at work, and now, enough, an army of engineers, army crews, with their civilian traffic, just as the military ambulances with the familiar red cross on their sides and roofs sped by.

With a brilliant display of fireworks, the 60th annual Edmonton Exhibition was concluded at midnight Saturday. I Saw Today

On the other hand, the agricultural and other exhibits were reported by officials to be on a high level, having reached their peak.

It was Travelers' Day at the fair and there was fun galore on all sides.

Total attendance for the week was 179,845 as against 218,968 for 1946, a decrease of 10,000. On Saturday the fireworks elicited to about 35,388 spectators, 30,867 for the closing day last year.

On Saturday, the mutuals' play was $14,541 against $14,709 for the last day last year.

Throughout the week the weather was favorable, with no rain, delay or loss as a result of rain. Only on Citizens' Day was the sky cloudy, but the proceedings carried on without incident.

Thousands of visitors flocked to the city from the surrounding district, to compete in various classes and to attend as spectators.

The exhibition as a whole went smoothly from first to last, with serious accidents reported and no deaths.

Officials are confident that the exhibition will go down in history as being one of the best in the organization's history.

Couple Congenial If Share Tastes

Dear Miss Dix: My husband is Polish and he just adores sausage with garlic in it. I am an American and I can't abide it. I don't mind cooking the meat for him or fitting sandwiches, but he raises hell because I won't eat with him. The question is: Should I force myself to eat this stuff just so he won't get mad?

And here is my real trouble: When there is a wedding or any celebration there is a big get-together. Now I have always been backward and never liked to go to other people's houses to eat. While I am always willing to go to my family affairs, I just can't make myself sit down and eat, and it brings tears to my eyes.

Can you help me with this problem? This trouble has caused some big quarrels between my husband and me, and it is the only thing that does otherwise. We get along perfectly well otherwise.

ANSWER: Well, sister, if you won't eat good Polish cooking with the right whiff of garlic, you are missing an awfully good bet. That is the favorite something of cookery that puts the pizzazz and flavor into a dish, that turns a simple meal into a feast, and that makes the humble host the gourmet's delight.

IF THERE is no arguing about taste, especially in food, and nothing is more important than to the same school of thought on the subject from Cook and that the Civil War was not fought over the issue of slavery, but over bread versus cold bread. Many a marriage is wrecked on the kitchen stove, while many a husband and wife live happily together to their golden wedding days because they can eat the same meal without quarrel.

Now, of course, an ounce of prevention is always worth a pound of cure, as men and women who find out before marriage whether they are pro-garlic or anti-garlic, whether they like their coffee strong or weak. But in case they neglect to take this precaution, they should be wise enough to cultivate a liking for the same dishes and thereby keep them out of the divorce court.

For it is nonsense to say we can't cultivate a taste for different foods. Most of us learn to eat olives through fasting and prayer and put in years acquiring a taste for caviar and certain cheeses whose odors make us gag at our own introduction to them, yet we become addicts to them in time. And there are people who even acquire the art of eating spinach, and liking it.

So it is a pity for a husband and wife to let a silly plot of garlic come between them. This mix so much when they can't enjoy the same food.

Dear Miss Dix: We are young girls who have a young girl in our crowd who literally is very much. She has a very nice friend whom she literally slaps down every chance she gets. No matter what she does or doesn't do, she makes some sarcastic comment. For instance, when we see a dog on some advertising that said "hot dogs, steaks, sandwiches," she remarked, "It's no use, he can't eat a hot dog." Later, when we stopped at a restaurant, she said, "I don't intend a hamburger because the boy friend had what he pocketed and that he's a cheap guy, etc., etc.—none of which is true."

WHY DO YOU think she is IT PUZZLED TEENY?

ANSWER: Lots of girls say cutting things to everyone who bothers they are brought in contact, because they think it shows how smart they are and how witty, but no one could make a greater mistake. No one enjoys being insulted, and no one thinks it is funny to be held up for ridicule. Many a girl who has thrust with her tongue. Don't do it.

Why Grow Old?

Photographs pick up beauty defects quickly which is the reason Josephine Lowman follows closely behind and beauty routines. Josephine Lowman compares the camera with actual sun and recommends a strong light when applying makeup.

By Josephine Lowman
Robert Chou, head of the Camera Department at Columbia Studios, told me that he can tell a lot about the way a woman has been living when she comes in to have her photograph taken. The camera is merciless, even though the expert photographer can do a lot to help out.

Mr. Chou said, "You cannot photograph with a sour stomach or when you have lost sleep. Eyes are the dominant point in any photograph and unhappy eyes show up immediately. I can tell whether an actress is happy or unhappy as soon as she arrives." This art also feels that every woman should have training in dancing because of the police and grace it gives her.

"Bright day light highlights, to some degree, the same defects in beauty and living which the camera picks out. This prompts me to call your attention to the fact that good lighting is an essential to good grooming and beauty care. Too many women tell themselves into inactivity by not, flatteringly, even when applying makeup."

A woman needs a brightly lighted makeup table and a full length mirror is a great spur to "doing something about it." A magnifying hand mirror is almost a necessity to good grooming. Too many women see their eyes down a bit by exaggerating faults in complexion, but it would be a good idea to see more careful attention to our skin and it is a boon when it comes to shaping eyebrows or pulling out stray hairs.

If you have recently looked your mirror in a good way, you will see the true facts, we can make mistakes in good conditions. If you wish to have my leaflet No. 48, "Reconditioning At Home," which tells you how to make your own cream and make, send stamped, self-addressed envelope with your request to Josephine Lowman in care of The Edmonton Bulletin.

The teachings of Confucius have been law to countless millions of his fellow-countrymen, there are shrines to him all over China and his books have been the foundation of all learning through the centuries.

In 223 B. C. the Tsin (sometimes written Chin) dynasty began to rule the country. The first emperor was Tsin-Shih Huang-ti. It was from that dynasty of Tsin (the Chin) that the country began to be called China.

Tsin was a powerful country for the country, he built roads and canals and set up many fine buildings. Yet he hated the words of Confucius and ordered all the philosopher's books to be burned. He was a first-class fighting man, and more than once defeated Tartar tribes in battle, but he had a different plan for treating the fierce Mongols who were raiding China from the north.

Tsin started a mighty wall that was to stretch all across the north of China. Twenty to thirty feet high, the wall was to be twelve to fifteen feet wide at the top, with many towers or small fortresses where watchmen could keep a sharp lookout for the raiders, and from which defenders could sail out to attack. This wonderful wall ran for more than 1,500 miles along the northern border of China. The wall still divides China from Mongolia, but it did not keep the Mongols out.

Bridge

By William E. McManey
Earl Ackerman of San Francisco, vice-president of the American Contract Bridge League, is planning to come east with Mrs. Ackerman to attend the summer session of the national championships at the Hotel St. George in Brooklyn, N.Y., the first week in August. Mr. and Mrs. Ackerman will be contenders for top honors in any event in which they play.

I saw them play today's hand the last time I was on the Pacific coast, and I thought they indicated not only a game, but a slanting of the cards. When she bid six diamonds and East passed, the South did not bid seven diamonds then, since he did bid it later.

His reason was that he felt confident that West was going to bid six spades. If he had bid seven diamonds immediately over six, a mirror is a great spur to "doing something about it." A magnifying hand mirror is almost a necessity to good grooming. Too many women see their eyes down a bit by exaggerating faults in complexion, but it would be a good idea to see more careful attention to our skin and it is a boon when it comes to shaping eyebrows or pulling out stray hairs.

If you wish to have my leaflet No. 48, "Reconditioning At Home," which tells you how to make your own cream and make, send stamped, self-addressed envelope with your request to Josephine Lowman in care of The Edmonton Bulletin.

That they could not bid six. After West had bid six spades, Ackerman felt that he would not take the sacrifice when seven diamonds was bid.

From the bidding Mrs. Ackerman obviously was well in spades, and had a very good fit in diamonds.

Therefore, it would take a terrifically bad break to be set at seven diamonds. West could not be blamed for doubting instead of bidding seven spades. With two aces and diamonds, he felt sure of a good result.

Ackerman ruffed the opening heart lead, set a pump to dump his king, ruffed a heart in his own hand and a spade in dummy, then ruffed the third heart, dropping West's ace. Dummy was second in ruffing the second heart spade, and Ackerman's third heart was discarded on the queen of hearts. Then the diamond finesse was taken, and Ackerman had 13 tricks.

Your Baby and Mine

You'll be wanting to keep your children quiet during these hot days and that's a big job. They seem to be indifferent to heat and yet can run around to the point of exhaustion. It isn't enough to keep hating at them to be quiet, you will have to think up some play that is interesting without being too active for them.

Children like entertainment which demands some preparation. Getting together the materials for it is often as much fun as the play itself. Suggest that they play a store. It takes a lot of time to hunt up small or large empty bottles, to clean them out and fill them with concoctions that look like medicines. There will be need for small empty boxes and maybe new inscriptions to be pasted on the top of them. They'll need money for their transactions, buttons and scraps of paper will do for that.

And the child who has a doctor's kit will be one of their best customers. There may even be a lunch counter at noon for the weary proprietors who have been mixing brick bats and blowing steam and water, and anything else that their fancy dictates, to fill up the empty bottles on their shelves. It's all fun and more exciting than to get out play bottles and pills all ready for use.

Girls may enjoy a military school. A whole morning can be spent preparing their stock made of leaves, grasses and flowers, pinned on to fancy toothpicks, or even more life-like creations cut from some of the leaves of the house plants. Flowers and ribbons from the rag bag.

All children love to go travelling. Especially when there is a family of dolls to be made ready for the journey and the boat prepared for the stormy voyage—in the middle of the living room floor. Usually it takes hours and hours to get everyone ready to mount the two bananas.

chairs, covered with a sheet, and embarked on a voyage of incredible roughness and danger. Just that feat of spare between chair and floor can be peopled with the most awful monsters and the travelers can sit, saving their perils, until it is time to climb down for lunch.

All of these provide plenty of exercise for the imagination, lots of preparation and hours of enjoyment on a hot day.

Our leaflet No. 90, "Toys for All Ages," may help the mother to provide some new games or toys for the torrid days. It may be had by sending a stamped, self-addressed envelope with your request to Myrtle Meyer Eldred.
